Mazevos does not send me anything. It has no analytics, no telemetry and no tracking, it loads its fonts from its own files, and it never contacts me. Everything you put into it stays in the database you created in your own account. I cannot see it and I hold no copy of it.

The only personal data I hold about you is what the store passes to me for the sale: your email address and your order record. I use it to deliver the product, to send you updates, and to answer you if you write to me. I keep the order record as long as Swedish bookkeeping law requires, and your email address while you may still want support or updates. I do not sell it. The only others who hold it are the store that processed your payment and the Discord server you join for support, which have their own policies.

If you are in the EU, EEA or UK you can ask me for a copy of that data, ask me to correct or delete it, and complain to your data protection authority. In Sweden that is Integritetsskyddsmyndigheten (IMY). Message me through the store or in the Discord to make a request.
